Not what I needed for my class.2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. This book is really bloated and reads like a high school level textBy MatthewThis book is really bloated and reads like a high school level text. In other words, up to half the words in each chapter could be removed and the meaning would not be lost. This makes the book dry and takes longer to read. As an introduction to movies and concepts, the book does its job.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy Shopping is lifeInteresting book for movie lovers changes how one views movie

Film analysis starts here. Looking at Movies is the most effective introduction to film analysis available. From its very first chapter, Looking at Movies provides students with the tools they need to become perceptive viewers of film. The Fourth Edition is not only more comprehensive, but also more accessible and sophisticated in its integration of media.

About the Author Richard Barsam (Ph.D., University of Southern California) is Professor Emeritus of Film Studies at Hunter College, City University of New York.
