PersingerA concerned friend might warn you that hes just trying to get into your pants, not knowing that in this case its your panties and itll be feet first. But hey, hes potential boy friend material. All your friends say so. At the hand of a strong writer, the young man in questions proclivity for silk and lace never becomes a gimmick. The story is straight-forward and honest, simple in overall structure, although crystalline in detail. Many well-turned and unexpected surprises reward and delight as the apparent drum beat to disaster is matched by the words No. No. No. issuing from the readers mouth. The panic however is pro forma. We have confidence in our narrator. She's a gem. And better. Shes authentic. Ringing true like a carillon.1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Loved it!By burnThis book delivers an entertaining account and perspective on what life and dating can be like. I love the aauthors writing style. She can be tragic and funny all in one sentence. She certainly knows how to encompass life, because life can be tragic and funny all at the same time. I highly recommend this book if you want a story about people stumbling through this silly thing we call life.1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. MesmerizingBy Damien CutugnoIt was like being invited to an incredible internal journey, full of emotion, tension and suspense. I absolutely loved it!

This was me, auto-tuning my level of acceptance to his level of needafter all, its just clothes, right? Has Megans life really come to this? Arguing with a teenager whose earlobes had been obnoxiously stretched within a millimeter of splitting, over the availability of crickets at the local pet store? Megans a science teacher who has sworn off online dating since the last man she dated may have killed his wife. That is, until one morning she gets an instant message from her friend Carolyn urging her to check out the profile of a guy whose, just perfect for her. Despite Megans instincts, she clicks on the profile revealing a beautiful man with long blond hair, holding an electric guitarand a Masters Degree in Comparative Literature. Should Megan give up solitude in her waterside co-op with her cat and boxed wine and calls from her crazy mother and drug addicted brother? After all, whats the very worst that can happen?Justifications, collaborative lies, humor and wine to cover the loneliness, Man in Bra Screams at Sneezing Cat, is a razor sharp examination of one womans willingness to emotionally look the other way for a shot at finding love. Or at least, someone to split the bills with.
