David P. Neumeyer : Meaning and Interpretation of Music in Cinema (Musical Meaning and Interpretation)
before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Meaning and Interpretation of Music in Cinema (Musical Meaning and Interpretation):

By exploring the relationship between music and the moving image in film narrative, David Neumeier shows that film music is not conceptually separate from sound or dialogue, but that all three are manipulated and continually interact in the larger acoustical world of the sound track. In a medium in which the image has traditionally trumped sound, Neumeier turns our attention to the voice as the mechanism through which narrative (dialog, speech) and sound (sound effects, music) come together. Complemented by music examples, illustrations, and contributions by James Buhler, Meaning and Interpretation of Music in Cinema is the capstone of Neumeier's 25-year project in the analysis and interpretation of music in film.

Neumeier . . . expands his significant contribution to film music studies with this magisterial volume. . . . Essential. (Choice) Neumeier introduces an eloquent and all inclusive film music theory that focuses on the spectators mental activities (revealed through systematic analysis) in constructing and enhancing meanings through music and sound in cinema. (Music and Letters) David Neumeier's lively engagement with an entire generation of multi-disciplinary scholars yields robust frameworks for understanding how music works in 'verbocentric' narrative film. Meaning and Interpretation of Music in Cinema is a work of great erudition, clarity, precision, and authority. (Claudia Gorbman author of Unheard Melodies: Narrative Film Music) Neumeier is a gifted writer who knows how to engage a reader from page to page. (Julie Hubbert author of Celluloid Symphonies: Texts and Contexts in Film Music History) About the Author David Neumeier is Marlene and Morton Meyerson Professor of Music in the Sarah and Ernest Butler School of Music, The University of Texas at Austin. James Buhler is Associate Professor of Music Theory in the Sarah and Ernest Butler School of Music, The University of Texas at Austin.
