There's a short introduction by Whedon and a very good interview as well. There are numerous photos from the filming. I'm using this -- and the film itself -- in class to talk about adaptation and it's perfect for that. I wish the photos could have been better reproduced, but glossy paper is much more expensive and there are a lot of pictures in here, so there's no way they could have kept the price down if they went with the better printing. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. If you want to experience Shakespeare this is your movie. By Teri. Not a fan of Shakespeare but I had to watch this to see Nathan Fillion. Once you stop trying to understand the Shakespeare and just watch the characters it starts to make sense and it becomes a very good movie. Too bad this did not get a wider distribution in theaters. I did see this on the big screen. People laughed and enjoyed this movie. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Amy Acker's Nose of Interest. By Andrea Petrovic. This book is great! In the first part you get a very long Joss Whedon interview and full script of the movie, both containing photos from the set with the cast. Favorite line by Whedon: "Amy Acker has fabulous nose"

Joss Whedon's new adaptation of Shakespeare's classic comedy has already been acclaimed as "a masterpiece". This official book features an Introduction by Joss, his full screenplay, and a gallery of photos from the set. Also included is an extended interview with the director, discussing his approach to the play, and the production of the film, shot in just 12 days at Whedon's own house.

"The interview with Whedon, as well as the behind the scenes photography, really bring value to the purchase price." - Geek Girl Project "I love screenplay books, and this one is more than just a script. I highly recommend this for anyone who loves owning scripts, fans of Joss Whedon and anyone else who just wants to learn more about this very interesting Much Ado About Nothing." - Renegade Cinema About the Author Joss Whedon is the creator and guiding light behind Buffy the Vampire Slayer, Angel, Firefly and Dollhouse. He also wrote and directed the movie Serenity, and, more recently, The Avengers movie for Marvel.
