Dave Phillips : Space Age Mazes (Dover Children's Activity Books) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Space Age Mazes (Dover Children's Activity Books):

For my 5 year old son (who loves mazes), this appears a bit overwhelming and the lack of variety makes him lose interest. He also got the Alien Invasion! Mazes book by Chuck Whelon and just loved that. He finished that whole book in one sitting! I would recommend that book over this one since it has far more variety and eye-catching pictures.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Fun for a seven year oldBy Susanne K.Our grandson is having a great time with this book, and is interested in the bits of information on each page.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. good maze bookBy anabellafun fun fun

Young puzzlists and space explorers will want to follow every twist and turn of these stimulating intergalactic escapades. Thirty-six delightful mazes of varying difficulty, each with its own objectives and restrictions, test the determination and skills of space age adventurers as they thread their way through meteor showers and asteroid belts; navigate the correct path around the sun; study a comet, without entering its tail; battle invisible enemy warships; defend against the furious space monster Clytem; find a way out of a space bug swarm; attempt to stay clear of energy bolts from an ion storm; locate the wise Nameless Being without getting lost; fly by Saturn while avoiding the deadly rings; and embark on other exciting tests of mental dexterity! Ideal for developing problem-solving abilities, these fascinating and challenging mazes promise hours of fun-filled entertainment and, what's more, the mazes, extraterrestrials, and interstellar objects can all be colored to suit the tastes (and imaginations) of young space travelers. Captions explain objectives for each maze; solutions appear at the end of the book.
